GVHC Board Reverses Decision To Sponsor Co-op Housing Bill

By Mat Amberg

The GVHC board of directors on Friday, March 25 voted unanimously to seek the death in the 1955 Maryland General Assembly of a bill originally introduced there at the request of GVHC and another housing co-op.

This unexpected decision, to undo a move in which the old GVHC board had invested $500 in lobbyist fees, came at the new board's first full business session after it was pointed out to the board that the bill as introduced contained provisions that would be worse for GVHC than to have no legislation at all.

Bernard Bordenet, a former board member, brought to the board an analysis of the bill, asserting the objectionable provisions could make GVHC go broke. The board motion as adopted called for withdrawal of the bill this year because of an amendment inserted before it was introduced.

The bill as approved by the old board did not contain the provisions objected to by Bordenet. These were inserted during negotiations with members of the legislature before the bill was introduced March 10 by Delegates Nichols and Sickles.

Eviction Provision

The bill would add to the Maryland corporation law a new set of provisions recognizing housing corporations such as GVHC and providing for a method of eviction of any member who defaults on his monthly payments.

GVHC general counsel Abe Chasnow explained that passage of such a law was necessary in his opinion to avoid running the risk of having some members taking unfair advantage of the corporation under certain conditions if an opinion uttered before a Maryland circuit court judge in a case involving the Potomac Heights housing co-op is upheld. The Potomac Heights co-op contract is like GVHC's.

But he explained also that the members of the legislature with whom the bill was discussed balked at certain provisions including one that seemed to be an attempt to evade the U.S. Supreme Court's anti-racist rulings. The bill, as presented to the law-makers for introduction, carries language recognizing the GVHC provision denying to a member the right to sell his membership to anyone unless the buyer has the corporation's approval.

Repurchase Agreement

The bill as introduced in the legislature carries provisions designed to compensate GVHC members —vis a vis the corporation—for this infringement on their right to sell and recover their equity. This provision would require the GVHC to buy back the member's stake in the co-op if it evicts him. The part objected to by Bordenet and the board members was that the GVHC would have to pay the ousted member "the full amount of principal, exclusive of interest and operating payments," and expenses.

The opponents of the bill as drawn argued that if the housing market has fallen at a time when members have paid in a large part of the price of their homes, a member wishing to sell could get more money by forcing GVHC to evict him and buy back his home under those terms than by selling on the open market.

Bordenet said this provision "could have such a terrible financial impact upon the corporation that it would be sheer madness for the corporation to recommend enactment of a law containing any mandatory repurchase provision."

Burgoon Opposed to Provision

Burgoon said that when the bill was presented to the board before its introduction, he was against the mandatory repurchase provision but it was needed by the other co-op. He stressed that the GVHC board was opposed to the bill as presented by the other co-op and that the old board members didn't put $500 into the bill with the intent to hurt GVHC. They wanted to be in on the legislative situation, he explained. Long recalled that

Pioneer After-Hour School Bus Plan Proves Success At 'Hi-Point' High

By Mrs. J. J. Blagg

After a two months' trial the "activities bus", a transportation project pioneered by High Point high school, has proved to be so successful that it will be continued until the end of the year.

The buses came into being last month when a group of students approached the school principal, Allan I. Chotiner, and asked if a school bus could not be used to take home students whose activities kept them after classes. Chotiner conferred with County Superintendent of Schools William Schmidt and after consideration with authorities the bus system was inaugurated on a trial basis.

3-Fold Purpose

The purpose of this undertaking is three-fold, according to Chotiner. First, it permits students to attend school club meetings held after classes and not interfere with the regular school program. Secondly, students who are particularly interested in some project—a scientific experiment, for example—may devote more time to this work and have the undivided assistance of the instructor. Lastly, a student who may need extra help in his work may have this time to bring his work up to a higher level.

As the school is far from a public transportation system, and as the students are drawn from such widely separated areas as Greenbelt and Takoma Park, it was evident that two buses would be needed. These two "activity buses" leave the school at 5:15 each afternoon, one taking students who live in the western part of the area, the other going to the eastern section. The vehicles are regular county school buses. Since they operate on an after-school schedule, a charge of ten cents a ride is made to the students patronizing them.

Co-op Help Praised For Baseball Aid

By Donnie Wolfe

Greenbelt will have a Class "A" Baseball League with the best teams in and around Washington. The league will have a total of 8 teams playing 56 double-headers. The league should start around the middle of April. Greenbelt expects to show the local fans a real good softball team.

Coming out of the service in time to pitch for Greenbelt is Hughie Rowell. Before Hughie left Greenbelt to go into the service he was about the best softball pitcher in the area. There are many teams trying to get Hugh to pitch for their team, but we hope that Hughie will be on the mound for Greenbelt when the season opens. This year's team will be sponsored by Greenbelt Consumers Service. It is Sam Ashelman's thoughtfulness that there were so many teams sponsored by CO-OP. The Babe Ruth, Little League and now the Softball Men's team. We want to thank Ashelman and Greenbelt Consumer Services for their generosity. For their help it gives 90 boys a chance to play.

Do-Si-Do for Youths

A square dance for young people up to 13 years will be held in the Center school auditorium tomorrow night, 8 to 10 p.m. Refreshments will be sold. Caller will be Arch Wence, who has called for Band-sponsored square dances. The dance is sponsored by the Center School PTA.

15,000 County Children Scheduled For Anti-Polio Inoculations Soon

By Rose G. Amberg, Health Chairman
Center School PTA

Some 15,000 children in Prince Georges County are due to take part in a history making mass inoculation in man's fight against paralytic polio. On Wednesday, March 30, Dr. Thomas Englar, county medical officer, told delegates to the School Health Council, that plans are being made to begin the shots April 18, once the green light has been given. (Other dates have not been set yet.) He asks that all parents request slips for the vaccine be sent to school by April 4 — he emphasized that this was a definite deadline.

Most physicians in the county have been recruited and have volunteered freely of their time, to help in this program, which will mean 15,000 shots times three or 45,000 visits with our children. Dr. Benjamin Miller announced. Dr. Miller is president of the Prince Georges County Medical Society. Many volunteers will be needed. Miss Mary Thompson, County School Health Supervisor, stated. She will contact the principals in the schools and explain the setup. The principal in turn will work with the school health chairman and will recruit volunteers.

Dr. Davens, Chief of Bureau of Preventive Medicine, Maryland State Health Dept., stressed these points:

1. The inoculations are purely voluntary. No child will be given the vaccination unless there is a signed request from the parent.

2. The vaccine will not be given unless it has been licensed by the Nat'l. Institute of Health, Bethesda. This Federal agency checks, for safe use, all biologicals made in this country. Once it has been licensed it is no longer in the experimental stage. The licensing is expected early in April.

3. The results of last year's experiments with the vaccine are still being tabulated at Ann Arbor, University of Michigan. The results will not be made public until early April. The report will be the determining factor as to whether the vaccine works. If the evaluation report is favorable then the program as planned will go into effect.

b. In answer to questions relevant to the shots, Dr. Davens stated there would be three intramuscular shots given over a 5 week period. To date, it is not known to what degree the effectiveness is lost if one or two shots are missed. "But," he emphasized, "we do know that three are necessary."

5. The vaccine confers immunity against paralytic polio. Dr. Davens stressed the fact that there are three strains of polio virus. Even if a child has had an attack of one strain, he would still be susceptible to the other types of polio virus. This vaccine is designed to protect against the three viruses.

6. There was some discussion about possible reaction to the vaccine. Dr. Davens felt that from reports received to date, there was a minimum of reaction. He compared the possible amount of reaction to the slight reaction of the whooping cough injections now given to all infants. Since there is a slight amount of penicillin in the vaccine, Dr. Miller elaborated somewhat on the possibility that penicillin sensitive patients might have a reaction. However, all the doctors on the program felt that the possibility of reaction to the vaccine was minimal, but if there was any question to refer it to a physician.

While this program is free to the first and second grades, the vaccine will be released to private physicians and clinics. As long as the manufacture of the vaccine is limited, the use of the vaccine will be on a priority basis. This will be set up by the health department and physicians will be asked to comply with these regulations. As soon as the output is increased, the vaccine will be available to all. Dr. Miller stated that a medical advisory committee had worked on the possible fees for the vaccine. He stated that they did not want to be accused of 'price fixing,' but it was generally agreed that the price would be the regular office charge plus the cost of the vaccine. He felt it might approximate $15 for the total of the three injections. Again, this will depend on the private physician's usual office price, and the price of the vaccine.

John Manlich, Jr., state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, spoke of the importance of preparing the children for these shots. He said that in the trial experiments last year, when the children were prepared, they displayed little or no apprehension or crying as compared to those who were not prepared beforehand. He also advised that mothers not be present as it might upset the youngsters.

There were organizations of every sort at the meeting working together to plan a program to help our children. Official and non-official agencies, professional and lay groups, everyone giving unselfishly to help this program to be successful. It has served and will continue to serve as a model and inspiration of what 'working together' can do.

Ghost Haunts Southway Seeking Sappy Slayer

The ghost of a flowering crab tree haunts the Greenbelt roadside this week searching for its murderer. A crude sign—obviously written with a dead twig dipped in blue sap—hangs from the decapitated sapling on Southway pleading "WHO KILLED ME?"

The tree is one of many planted last fall as part of a $3000 beautification program to enhance the entrance to Greenbelt. A week ago cut or broke the soon-to-bloom crab tree in half. Sic transit Gloria Southway!

Trash Tour Set For Saturday For Sure

According to councilman James C. Smith, the city council will tour the city on Saturday, April 2 at 1 o'clock to inspect the trash situation. It will be the first time that the city council has taken such a tour, and it is designed to afford councilmen an opportunity to view the cleanup problem as they cover the city as a basis for possible future action. City Manager McDonald, Superintendent of Public Works, Buddy Attick, Frank Lastner of GVHC, and newspaper representatives will go along on the tour.

Bank Closed

The management of Suburban Trust Company has announced that the bank will be closed Friday, April 8, in observance of GOOD FRIDAY, a legal holiday in the State of Maryland.

Band Notes

By Joseph Remenick

The Greenbelt Band gave its first indoor concert for a group of very responsive parents at the Center School PTA on March 22. The music program, directed by Michael Ronca, was enthusiastically received; many commented on the progress the band has made in the past year. It is hoped that the band will have more participants for the concerts planned in the months ahead. Parents are asked to encourage their youngsters (in the age group nine thru the teens) to join the Community Band. A dollar registration fee and a 35c weekly rehearsal charge will provide your son(s) and/or daughter(s) a social activity offered by very few communities. A few instruments are still available. See Mr. Hopkins at the Center School band room Monday nights at 7:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fern proudly announce the arrival on March 11 of Patrick Michael. Patrick weighed in at eight pounds, six ounces in Prince Georges Hospital and joins three sisters (Margaret 5, Kathleen 11, Maxine 14) and two brothers (Billy 16, David 17) at 9-A Ridge.

Happy birthday to Wayne Shottwell, 6-A Plateau, who celebrated his fourth birthday Saturday, March 26, with a party for twelve children.

Congratulations to three Greenbelt residents who took the oath of citizenship last week at a naturalization ceremony in Upper Marlboro. They are Daphne May Gamble, 13-K Hillside, who hails from England; and Nikolai and Erna Laidver, 9-E Laurel Hill, from Estonia.

Very happy to hear that Evelyn Sanders, 17-J Ridge, is now home recuperating from an emergency operation. Ten-year-old Evelyn came home from the hospital last Sunday and hopes to return to school next week. She wants to thank her many friends who sent her cards, flowers and gifts.

Did you hear that Gerald Kushner, 71-L Ridge, won the TV set raffled off by the Boys Club last Saturday night? Gerald is only eleven years old!

The Harry Zubkoff's, 17-H Ridge, have been enjoying the visit of their brother-in-law, Mayer Ludwig, who came down from Buffalo for a few days.

Congratulations are being tendered Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Shanahan, 57-B Ridge, who really have the "luck of the Irish." Their son, Lawrence Patrick, made his debut on March 17 (St. Patrick's Day to the uninitiated!) in Sibley Hospital. The Shanahans also have a son James 7, and a daughter Margaret 5.

Happy birthday to Debra Beth Vernoff who was six on March 30. She will have a birthday party at her home, 19-E Ridge, on Saturday, April 2.

It's very good to hear that James Shores, Jr., 10-A Southway, is home after spending 51 weeks in Prince Georges Hospital. Five-year-old Jimmy tangled with a truck last year and was the loser. He will have to undergo some more operations in about three months but we are delighted to have him back in Greenbelt.

Last weekend the DonBullians with sons Anthony and Ronald went down to Ft. Bragg, North Carolina, to see their son Edward receive his wings in the Army Paratroops, 2nd Airborne Division. Also traveling with them were Pat Jones, Edward's girl and "Bootsie" Yates, Ronald's girl.

The ceremony, on March 25, was a very impressive one. A 3-star General pinned the wings on Ed, and he in turn pinned them on his mother. Anthony, who is only six years old, was dressed in a miniature Army uniform and also received wings and the general and his wife shook hands with him.

Thomas Lundheim is recovering from a slight heart attack in Prince Georges Hospital. He and his wife are visiting their daughter Joan Dickerson, 6-S Hillside.

Condolences to Sam Schwimer whose aunt, Mrs. Ida Sivin of New York, passed away last week. His mother, Mrs. Sarah Rosenthal, is coming to live with them in time to help the family celebrate Reba's birthday on April 8.

Jerry and Vivian Pines are happy to have his mother so near and, of course, Carol, Maida and Albert think there is nothing like having Grandmother on hand. Mrs. Pines, in order to keep occupied, has opened a very unusual business called the "Swap Shop." People take good outgrown clothing to her and she endeavors to sell it. She wants to make friends and will become active in the Jewish Community Center.

Jimmy and Barbara Wood and son Johnny (18 mos.), formerly of Landover Hills, are now residing at 14-D Laurel Hill. Jimmy is employed by the telephone company in the District.

John and Bonnie Balch are enjoying their home at 4-A Laurel Hill and like Greenbelt very much. They have one daughter, Joan Kay (2 years old). Both are employed at the Army Map Service. John is a member of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department.

Reverend G. W. Samuelson, Pastor of the Greenbelt Baptist Chapel, and family moved to 4-E Hillside, February 1. Reverend Samuelson was Minister of Christian Education at the First Baptist Church, Silver Spring. He is a graduate of Moody Bible Institute, has an AB in Anthropology from Wheaton College, Wheaton, Illinois, and received his Masters Degree in Religious Education at Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. He has also done graduate work at Northwestern University, Delaware University and the University of Maryland.

Mrs. Samuelson is a graduate of Bob Jones University, Greenville, South Carolina. The Choral group might be interested to know that she is a soloist.

The Samuelsons have two children Linda Ruth, 2½ and Donald Glenn, 4 months. They think Greenbelt is grand for raising children. Rev. Samuelson says he has found the people very friendly and has received splendid cooperation from everyone.

he had been against the original decision to back the bill and spend the money.

Chasanow's explanation of why the bill was necessary, in view of the judge's opinion that GVHC's contract really is a land installment contract not a lease or fee simple one, did not convince the board.

Bordenet and other foes of the bill, including board members, argued that the bill would not meet the anticipated danger under the judge's opinion even if that opinion is valid law—which he doubted—because it would merely affect contracts signed after the bill becomes law, if enacted. Present contracts signed after the bill be- less the members can be persuaded to trade them in for new ones, these critics noted.

"Unknown Terrors"

Board member Phariss commented that "unknown terrors" to the GVHC implicit in the judge's opinion would be better to face than the known ones in the mandatory repurchase provision in the bill as introduced by Nichols and Sickles.

The members discussed for a while how to word a proposed substitute section that they could offer the legislators in lieu of the mandatory repurchase provision but finally were persuaded to give up that attempt in view of the short time remaining in the General Assembly session and the care required in drafting such a provision.

The GVHC board also voted to: 1. Approve a contract for sale of the remaining undeveloped land, and the GVHC wholly-owned land subsidiary GLIC, to the Warner-Kanter builder and developer firm. The contract now has to go to Peoples Development Corporation (PDC), Columbus, Ohio, for approval.

2. Grant to the Jewish Community Center an easement permitting JCC to use a six footwide swath of land beyond its own terrain. JCC's driveway to the rear parking lot needed the extra space, not foreseen when the JCC building plans were made.

3. Grant to a member whose home has been occupied by a sub- lessor the first exception in GVHC's history from the ban on sub-letting for more than two years. Such exceptions are provided for at the board's discretion and the member applying for the dispensation wrote that he may be able to return to Greenbelt and didn't wish to give up his "garden spot." GVHC general manager Campbell said the tenant's rent was merely enough to cover the monthly payments.

Test For Clay In Your Soil

Add a few drops of water to dry soil.

Firm "cigarette" means heavy clay.

Clay soils can be friend or foe. Only back-breaking work can conquer the pavement-like structure of heavy clay soils resulting from wear and tear, heavy rains, wind and sun. In their favor, clay types often contain many of the plant foods lacking in sandy, more readily workable soils. With proper treatment, they make an excellent growing medium.

Is yours a clay soil? It is easy to find out with a simple home test patterned on scientific methods of soil testing.

Take a small handful of soil from your garden or lawn. A little moisture is necessary, so if the ground is completely dry, add four or five drops of water and mix it thoroughly into the soil. If you can form a "cigarette," there is some clay content. A stiff cigarette means a higher percentage of clay than the one which insists on bending.

Having once established that you are working with a clay soil, proper treatment can be effectively determined. Florists and nurserymen know the additional plant foods needed for these types. Several good formulations, both dry and water-soluble, are readily available.

Cultivation of a good seedbed will be the hardest problem — breaking the compacted soil into small particles ranging from pinhead to pea size. At this time the addition of a chemical soil conditioner is a wise and money-saving move. It stabilizes the good structure won by hard work and enables the soil to retain its good form through several seasons. The next time a spot needs digging for planting of shrubs or flowers, it will turn easily. The conditioner keeps small soil particles separated by air spaces, allowing water and plant food to penetrate as needed and roots to spread through crumbly soil.

Proper cultivation, maintenance of the good soil structure and a balanced diet of plant foods are all necessary ingredients to successful gardening — whether lawns, flowers, shrubs, trees or vegetables.

Your Income Tax

By E. DonBullian

Individuals holding down two jobs will be interested in the following ruling (2/28/55) recently made by Internal Revenue on the 1939 Code. This ruling appears to be applicable to and is implied in the 1954 Code.

Where an employee having two separate employers is required to work on the same day at a different location for each of his employers, it is recognized that his transportation expenses in going from his first to his second place of employment constitutes ordinary and necessary expenses incurred on his combined trade or business and in discharging his duties at both locations during that same day. However, the deduction of local transportation expenses, especially in a dual-employer situation, would usually be limited to a one-way trip between his local places of employment on the same day because the employee ordinarily would not have to report back to his first place of employment on that day.

The transportation expenses held to be deductible constitute ordinary and necessary business expenses, rather than traveling expenses "while away from home," unreimbursed transportation expenses may be deducted by an employee only in computing net income and then only on condition that the taxpayer itemizes his deductions instead of electing the optional standard deduction.

Claiming of Wife of Taxpayer As a "Dependent"

So many residents of Greenbelt have raised questions on the income-tax status of their wives that it seems appropriate to print the following clarification recently publicized by Internal Revenue. (3/14/55)

Some people are under the impression that a taxpayer may claim a deduction of $600 for his wife as an exemption under the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 and also claim an additional deduction of $600 for her as a dependent. Others believe that a taxpayer may claim his wife as a dependent even though she has income of her own and files a separate return. While a taxpayer may obtain a deduction for the personal exemption of his wife, under no circumstances may he claim her as a "Dependent" on his Federal income tax return.

As was the case under prior law, when a joint return is filed, the husband and wife are each allowed a $600 deduction for personal exemption. If the taxpayer files a separate return, he may also obtain a $600 deduction for the personal exemption of his wife, as well as a $600 deduction for himself, provided his wife has no gross income and is not the dependent of another taxpayer. The spouse of the taxpayer has never been included with the definition of a dependent.

Questions on Income Tax will be answered by calling GR. 3-8746.)

GREENBELT VALET SHOP

The School Corner

By Joan Dickerson

The week of March 21-25 has been a busy one at the Greenbelt Junior High school.

Mr. Geisemheimer, principal of Bladensburg Vocational High School, met with those boys interested in a vocational course on Tuesday, March 22, at Greenbelt Junior High school. He showed a film and gave each boy a copy of the Bladensburg Junior High School "Scroll."

The Greenbelt Junior High band participated in the Maryland Band Day Festival held at the University of Maryland on Tuesday, March 22. The 40 band members played the "Triton Overture" by the English composer, Courtney, "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" by the Russian composer, Rachmaninoff; and "Blues in the Band" by the American composer, Del Baroni. An interesting and enjoyable day was had by the band members at this statewide festival.

Also on Friday, the Science Fair was held in Room 1 and all classes attended. One of the most outstanding exhibits was a 60,000 volt "test-a-coil" built by Jim Drake.

Friday was also "Student Day." Elected students took the places of their teachers and taught the classes. The principal, vice-principal, and secretary were also replaced by Gail Stewart, Keith Mikesell, and Ralph Behrens, respectively. On Monday teachers, students and the administration returned to their usual work.

Everyone had a wonderful time at the circus eating peanuts, pop corn, pink candy floss, and watching the clowns, the daring aerialists, and the elephants and lions and tigers. On Tuesday the boys and girls were translating their experience into pictures, clay animals, and stories about the circus.

PG County Red Cross Drive Hits Half Mark

At the end of the 24th day of the drive, Joseph W. Rabbitt, Jr., Fund Campaign Chairman of the Prince Georges County Red Cross County chapter, announced that a total of $17,420 had been contributed. This represents 51% of the county quota, and consists of donations from 6,710 contributors.

With but one week to the end of the month, Rabbitt emphasized the need for a more energetic push and support on the part of residents of the county in their Red Cross chapter. He pointed out that it is up to all of us to see that Red Cross gets the financial support necessary to continue its intensive and successful program of helping others. Rabbitt urged all solicitors to endeavor to call on all prospective donors in order to complete the drive as soon as possible.

NE PTA Hears Talk On Language Arts

Miss Emma Bowman, Prince Georges County Supervisor of Elementary School Education, spoke to the North End PTA on "Language Arts," last Tuesday night. She stated that the sequence to any language is listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills. The teachers give the children many experiences to encourage reading, they develop a meaningful approach to reading—not just saying words but trying to visualize words; recreational reading should be encouraged with the use of easy reading and proper environment, Miss Bowman declared. Recreational reading should be at the level of a grade or two below the grade the child is in, she added.

Mrs. Allan Chotiner, membership chairman, reported that the membership has reached 367 or 86% of the total possible enrollment. Only 35 families have not yet become members.

The Long View

We all know that "the best schemes o' mice and men gang off a gley," but when something you have planned gets all loused up, it is exasperating. A couple of weeks ago a nice dinner was held in honor of Chief Panagoulis to which I was naturally invited. I say "naturally" because all the important folks in town with $3.50 to spend were on the list. This excluded unimportant people and people without $3.50, which boiled it down to a nice select crowd of about 200. Well, I had the $3.50 hid in the toe of my shoe but I was in Texas that night and, of course, couldn't attend.

Being of an ingenious mind, however, I figured out how to save part of the $3.50, stay in Texas and still be present in spirit at least. So on the morning before I sent a wire to the Chief from Dallas which read, "I and all the sheriffs in this great State of Texas send best wishes and personal regards—signed Al Long," with instructions it should be delivered just as the dinner was starting. I licked my chops in mental appreciation of my cleverness because I could just see it being read and everyone murmuring, "Isn't that Long the clever one."

When I got back to town, however, no one slapped me on the back and said, "Say, that was a good wire you sent from Texas." So finally I had to come right out and ask Toastmaster Lastner if they got the wire. "No," he said, "we never got it." Then I called Western Union and was told that they delivered it and I owed an extra 50 cents for the personal delivery. By golly, it would have been better and cheaper if I had cancelled the trip to Texas and gone to the dinner. It's awful hard to save $3.50 when you are an important person in this town.

Last Sunday, on television, I saw some part of the Montgomery Ward's stockholders' meeting at which they were having a regular Donneybrook brawl over the Avery-Wolfson fight. At first glance, I thought it was a good old membership meeting in Greenbelt, which only goes to prove that people are as funny as Greenbelters or vice versa.

"Operation Safety"

Now that Spring has arrived, thoughts of housecleaning, gardening or otherwise putting the premises in shape come to mind. Before these thoughts are distracted by less tedious pursuits, action should be taken to get rid of hidden safety hazards which may disrupt a whole summer of happiness. With this in mind, the Home Accident Prevention Unit of the Maryland State Department of Health offers the following suggestions.

To start with, get rid of rubbish such as old newspapers, oily or paint filled rags, partially filled cans of old paint, dust mops, discarded furniture, clothing and the like. Oily rags and dust mops, if improperly stored, are capable in themselves of bursting into flame spontaneously as a result of heat generated by chemical action. Other rubbish stored nearby simply provides more fuel once a fire starts.

As falls are the number one cause of accidental injury in the home, be particularly careful in climbing around in the cellar or attic. A sturdy stepladder and plenty of light are the answer to avoid danger here. Working in high places outside requires an inspection of the ladder for cracks and other defects. This is especially true if the ladder has been exposed to weather. Remember termites feast on wood cellulose and may have weakened the rungs or side supports. Check the condition of outside stairs, railings and porches which take a lot of punishment from heavy traffic and the weather. In time, without proper care, treads and flooring loosen and railings become weak. Rot, too, is another enemy of wood, and if a weight bearing structure is affected the results can be disastrous.

For the unsuspecting housewife, cleaning fluids containing harmful vapors present an unseen hazard. Used indoors without proper ventilation, serious or even fatal injury may result. The vapors of some products have a cumulative effect, that is, cause severe damage to vital organs after extended usage even though exposure at any one time is not prolonged. Fluids containing carbon tetrachloride fit this category, and are often used because of their non-flammable character. Unfortunately, this attribute is more than offset by their toxic effect. To be safe when using cleaning fluids, solvents, paint or varnish removers, always read and heed the instructions given for their use.

About the yard and garden, hidden or unseen hazards galore may exist. A good way to start your "operation safety" there is by first raking up dry leaves and brush which seem to nestle near the house and other buildings. This will not only improve the appearance of your place but reduce the fire hazard as well. You'll also want to safeguard any post holes, ditches, excavations or abandoned wells on the property. These are known as "attractive hazards" that all too frequently lure children to their death. To further protect children, check swings, see-saws or other play equipment. A rope on a swing isn't made to last forever, and the time to change it is before it snaps.

A last word of caution concerning insecticides and bug killers. Some of these are really dangerous, if not used according to direction. Also important to keep in mind is storage of these items out of the reach of children or pets. As ironic as it may sound, parents are notorious for their painstaking efforts to place candy out of the reach of their offspring while storing poisonous substances within easy access.
